SUPER ACTION™
FOOTBALL
PLAYBOOK

Here are some terrific plays . . . in words and diagrams . . .
for both offense and defense.

COLECO

GREETINGS, SPORTS FANS . . .

. . . and welcome to the action! As the head coach in Coleco's SUPER ACTION™ FOOTBALL, you'll have to make some crucial decisions before the game's over—decisions that'll put your skill and foresight to the test. Lucky for you, this playbook can make your job a little easier. Use it to select and execute realistic running and passing plays never before possible in a home video game.

On the following pages, you'll find diagrams of the available offensive blocking patterns and defensive rushing patterns, along with a variety of plays based on those patterns. Some are simple to execute and others will need a fair amount of practice. Try them out against the computer first in ONE-PLAYER OFFENSE. Then test your skill by playing directly against another player. Before you know it, you'll be running and passing just like the pros!

Of course, you can make up your own plays and run them, too. Experiment with different strategies until you find the ones that work best for your team. This playbook is only the beginning of the hours of enjoyment you can expect playing SUPER ACTION™ FOOTBALL!

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

Before selecting and running the plays that follow, take some time to become familiar with your controls. Refer to your basic Instruction Guide for detailed instructions on using the Control Stick, Keypad and Action Buttons, and that all important Speed Roller. Then practice against the computer in ONE-PLAYER OFFENSE. The more you practice, the better your performance on the field will be.

Offensive Strategy Tips

- Try to decide what type of play you're going to execute before you select a blocking pattern during the huddle.
- Watch how the defensive player positions his linebackers before the hike and use that information to finalize the play in your mind. For example, if the defensive player moves his linebackers to the left side of your line before the hike, you might decide to hand off to your halfback and then send him around to the unprotected right side.
- Consider how your block selection will affect the motion of your backs and your opponent's backs. Then hike the ball and go for it!
- Use your handoff and fake handoff options to confuse the defense. But remember that for the brief period following a handoff or fake handoff the ball is hidden and the ball carrier can still be tackled.
- Use your backs to block on the run for your ball carrier during the play. For example, your quarterback can hand off to your halfback and then get in the way of a defensive linebacker.

- Passing for long gains is not easy. Practice completing passes of all lengths to get a feel for the type of spin needed on the Speed Roller at each distance. Remember, the Roller's speed when the pass leaves the quarterback's hand is all that matters.

Defensive Strategy Tips

- Use the linebacker blitz to pressure the quarterback.
- If you have the lead late in the game, delay breaking your huddle to eat up clock time!
- Move your backs before the hike to keep the offense off balance.
- Get your yellow safety into the action quickly by setting him in continuing motion toward the line of scrimmage just when the ball is hiked. Then, when he reaches the line, you can take control of him again to cover the flankerback or to pursue the ball carrier.
- Just as in an actual football game, it's sometimes difficult to follow the ball because of the variety of plays the Offense can select. Concentrate on the quarterback until he passes or hands off so you don't lose track of the ball!
- Keep every offensive back covered until the quarterback passes, hands off or crosses the line of scrimmage. To cover a potential receiver, move your back within three yards of the receiver, then set your back in continuing motion to stay with the receiver. Check on the relative positions of the two men every few seconds during the play to keep your back close to the receiver.

- No game is worth its salt without risks. Take a gamble and defend aggressively by playing for the interception. Keep a back near each receiver; when a pass is in the air, get between the ball and the receiver and go for the interception! Your back can catch a pass as well as the receiver can.

THE LINEUP

Here's the Basic Lineup of Both Teams, Seen from Above

The offensive player can shift his flankerback and halfback to the opposite sides before the hike by pressing RIGHT (Key 3) or LEFT (Key 1) and back again by pressing LEFT or RIGHT.

The defensive player can move his linebackers freely before the hike (but must avoid running offsidess) and can shift his safety by using LEFT (Key 1), MIDDLE (Key 2) or RIGHT (Key 3).

OFFENSIVE BLOCKING PATTERNS

Select a blocking pattern during the huddle to protect your backs during the play.

Left End

Right End

Right Off-Tackle

Center:

Press CENTER (Key 2) to open a hole for your running backs at the center of your line. This block works best when the defense selects an off-tackle rush.

Press KICK (Key 9) to set up for a punt or field goal attempt.

FLANKERBACK PASS ROUTE PATTERNS

Comment:

If you, as the offensive player, select a pass route for your flanker during the huddle, he will run one of these patterns during the play until you take control of him.

Example: You press PASS ROUTE (Key 7) to tell the computer that you want to select a pass route, then you press RIGHT (Key 3) and MEDIUM (Key 8). After the hike, your flanker will run the pattern until he reaches the end of the pattern, in this case the "medium right" position in this diagram, and will then stop. To avoid pass interference, your flankerback cannot block or be blocked by defending backs until a pass is caught or the quarterback crosses the line of scrimmage. Watch out, though! Your flanker can be blocked on the line by defending linemen.

If you shift your flankerback before the hike, his running pattern will follow a route slightly different from that in the diagram, but he will complete the pattern at the same point.

OFFENSIVE PLAYS

These tried and true offensive plays are presented in order of difficulty, with simple plays first and complex plays last.

Set up each play in the huddle by selecting the listed block and flankerback pattern. Execute the play by following the numbered procedure.

Some plays include a danger zone, denoting an area that must be free of defensive linebackers when the ball is hiked in order for the play to gain good yardage. If you see a defensive linebacker move into the danger zone of the play you've planned, quickly improvise a play to a different area when you hike.

Play 9: Long Pass

BLOCK: Pass Block (Key 5)

FLANKER PATTERN: Any Long Pattern (Key 5)

1. Shift your flankerback and halfback before the hike by pressing RIGHT (Key 3).

3. Assess the defense. If your quarterback is threatened by rushing linemen or blitzing linebackers, move the quarterback and your halfback so that the halfback provides additional blocking for your quarterback.
4. If your quarterback is well protected, move your halfback to the left of the line and then downfield as a second receiver.
5. Maneuver your flankerback (and halfback, if going out for a pass) until a receiver is deep and open, then pass to that receiver. Make sure to spin the Speed Roller rapidly when you activate the pass so that the ball will reach the receiver.

DEFENSIVE ALIGNMENTS

In addition to selecting rushing patterns for your defensive linemen, you can assign one or both of your linebackers to blitz and you can align your backs before the hike to anticipate offensive strategies.

After your huddle breaks, use the Control Stick and Action Buttons to move your red and purple linebackers anywhere along the line, but don't cross the line of scrimmage or the referee will call off-sides! After the offensive huddle breaks, press LEFT (Key 1), MIDDLE (Key 2) or RIGHT (Key 3) to shift your yellow safety across the field.

Here are some examples of how your backs can be positioned.

Standard Alignment

LINEBACKERS: No shift, no blitz.

SAFETY: No shift. However, if the flankerback shifts to the opposite side, shift to stay with him.

Provides excellent protection against an offensive gain over five yards. All your backs will be able to guard against passes and will be able to key on the ball carrier once he crosses scrimmage. Allows defense to gain short yardage on the ground.

Standard Alignment

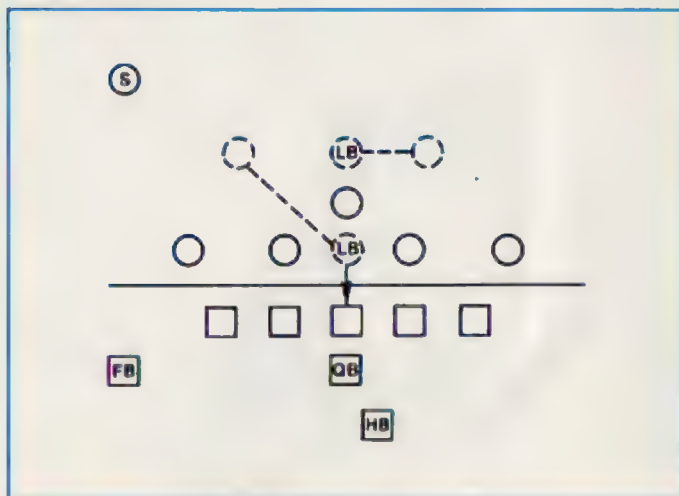

Stack Alignment:

LEFT LINEBACKER: Move up to the center of the line, blitz.

RIGHT LINEBACKER: Move to the center of the backfield, no blitz.

SAFETY: No shift. However, stay with the flanker-back.

Stops short running gains through the line. The blitzing linebacker pressures the quarterback and prevents a run up the middle. The rear linebacker reacts to the left or right after the hike to prevent an off-tackle run. Cover the flankerback with your safety by sending the safety toward the line of scrimmage with continuing movement. When your safety gets near the flankerback, take control of the safety to stay close. Allows a run or pass around the right side.

Stack Alignment

Spread Alignment:

LEFT LINEBACKER: Move up to the left end of the line, blitz.

RIGHT LINEBACKER: Move up to the right end of the line, blitz.

SAFETY: Shift to the center.

Shuts down any running plays around either end of the line. The safety guards the center against a run up the middle. Allows offense to gain short yardage up the middle. Allows passes if receivers get past the blitzing linebackers.

Spread Alignment

Pass-Prevent Alignment:

LEFT LINEBACKER: Move up to the left end of the line, no blitz.

RIGHT LINEBACKER: Move up to the center of the line, blitz.

SAFETY: Shift to the side of the field opposite the flankerback.

Makes offensive passing almost impossible. The blitzing linebacker pressures the quarterback and prevents a run up the middle. The outside linebacker covers the flankerback. The safety covers the halfback if he runs around the right side. Allows the offense to gain yardage by running off-tackle or, if the outside linebacker is drawn away by the flankerback, by running around the left end.

Pass-Prevent Alignment

All-Out Blitz Alignment:

LEFT LINEBACKER: Move up to the center of the line, blitz.

RIGHT LINEBACKER: Move up to the right end of the line, blitz.

SAFETY: No shift. However, stay with the flanker-back.

Presents a long pass, a run up the middle and a run around the right end. Breaks up sophisticated offensive plays by applying quick pressure. The safety runs in to cover the flankerback. Allows an off-tackle run or, if the halfback gets past the outside linebacker, a pass to the halfback.

All-Out Blitz Alignment

It's game time and the pressure's on! Plan strategies that push your team toward the goal line, then execute every play with the utmost precision. You're not in the grandstand anymore—you're where the action is!
